

The annual March ‘Top Places to Live’ issue is a must read for prospective homeowners whether they are looking to own their first house, invest in a renovation, or move up to the home of their dreams. By positioning your brand alongside this valuable resource, you will be top of mind to these future clients, home industry professionals, and enthusiasts in attendance.

Through partnering with Boston Design Week, the fifth annual citywide design festival open to the public, this event will benefit from added exposure through their website, program books, and social media programs. This avenue will entice and engage with individuals looking to renovate or buy a new home, as well as the top players in the home design industry. The evening is anchored by a panel discussion featuring experts, with cocktails and hors d’oeuvres before and after the conversation.
